NGA Program on Justice Intergovernmental IT Integration: Achieving Implementation

The National Governors Associated (NGA) has awarded each state $25,000 to assist the states in creating a plan for integrated justice. As part of the planning process, Washington was invited to send a delegation to Santa Fe, New Mexico. Remaining funds from the grant could be used to help create a document that would be used as a revised JIN Blueprint and grant application. NGA will be awarding funds to help with the implementation of several of the states strategic plans.

2001-03 JIN Banner Funding Requests

Gary Robinson stated that in the past the JIC has reviewed justice related budget requests and provided recommendations to OFM and the Governor. Paul Taylor presented an overview of the JIN Banner funding request and how they related to each other and to the general themes of integrated justice. A motion was made to adopt the JIN funding banner model as a recommendation to OFM and to the Governor. The motion passed unanimously.

Chief Sandberg stated the Radio Interoperability Study was not funded by the legislature. She provided an overview of the proposed WSP Emergency Communication System. The request will update data communication services, replace voice and mobile radios and integrate voice and data. The request is for 21 million dollars. She further stated that the system will not be presented under the JIN banner, but will remain under the WSP funding request.

Updating the Washington State Justice Blueprint

Paul Taylor stated that work would begin to take place on the JIN Blueprint, version 2.0. Copies of version 1.0 of the Blueprint will be sent to the CJIA and JIC asking them for comments to be used towards the creation of version 2.0. It is anticipated that the JIN Blueprint, version 2.0 will be completed by February 28th.

Federally Funded Projects Status

Tom Clarke from the Office of the Administrator for the Courts and Commander Lopez from the Washington State Patrol provided handouts.

Justice Common Architecture

Tom Clarke spoke about the work of the Data Standards/Architecture sub-committee and that the committee will be concentrating their efforts on business rules that will focus on the WATCH and SOP programs. Additionally the sub-committee will work on XML tags and Web Architecture.

Radio/Wireless Interoperability

Dennis Hausman reported that the Radio/Wireless Interoperability committee has been working on finding alternative funding for a study to determine the state's requirements for interoperability. The sub-committee is also working on a recommendation that will be presented at the next JIC meeting that will address additional needs of the state.

JIN Conference 2000

Dennis stated the conference is on schedule for November 8, 2000 and has 150 participants registered thus far.

New Business

Mary McQueen stated the electronic judgement and sentencing project has not been funded and would like to see it as a priority moving forward.

Meeting Adjourned.
